Beyond the resources in this Help Center, Jackrabbit plays an active role on social media and other platforms.

From new enhancements before and after release to upcoming training opportunities and webinars, we strive to keep you informed. In addition to the blue in-app messenger we use to relay important information (also known as Intercom), there are other ways you can stay connected with us!

Jackrabbit Software Users Facebook Group

The Jackrabbit Software Users Group on Facebook was created to give you a place to collaborate with your peers in similar industries for all things business-related. While a lot of questions might be related to Jackrabbit, they don't have to be! Maybe you want to know:

- Do you accept online payments?
- How was the transition to Jackrabbit from another application?
- What brand of tablets do you use for your staff? Are you happy with them?
- How do you use Jackrabbit's User-defined Fields?
- Do you allow makeups? If so, what is your makeup policy?

Keep in mind, this group does NOT replace our fantastic support team. For specific questions or when something seems "off", use the  button on the top-right of every page in Jackrabbit. With the ability to log into your account, our Support team can effectively troubleshoot and escalate if needed!

Not a member yet? Request to join the group, answer 2 brief questions, and a moderator will approve your request! Answering the questions helps us approve requests faster as this is a closed group for Jackrabbit users only.

Jackrabbit's Blog

The Jackrabbit blog focuses on Enhancements as well as Software Tips from time to time. Our goal is to inform you about new enhancements and features that will make your job easier. You can check out the blog on the Jackrabbit website.

Jackrabbit's YouTube Channel

Need quick help with a feature in Jackrabbit? We have our own YouTube channel! With 200+ videos and counting, our channel is full of easy-to-follow training videos for all users.

Subscribe to our YouTube channel and click the bell icon to receive notifications of our new videos. Videos are added regularly and this will ensure you are the first to know.
